"Master Key" Full Of Thrilling Events

The ninth episode of the "Master Key" at the Rex Monday and Tuesday night proved that this serial becomes more thrilling with each installment. This picture closed with a terrific battle, being fought for possession of the Master Key Mine, between Dore and the miners and the Mexican outlaws who had been hired by Wilkerson by his promise to give them a share in the profits of the mine for their services.

Wilkerson is just about to overcome Dore in a hand to hand fight on the one track when a shot fired by Ruth would claim and he falls over the bank.

The following points are to be answered in the next episode, on Monday and Tuesday nights:

Does John Dore own the letter left for Ruth Gallon by her father, to be opened on her eighteenth birthday or before—? What treasure does the letter speak of? It is necessary to draw a certain check out of the sea to view this treasure? How did Wilkerson get word of that chest? Why did he steal the key from Ruth's neck? Who is that other driver whom Wilkerson's driver sees as he flies his rope to the chest, and is handed upward. Don't forget to see the tenth episode for the answer to these questions.

Has the Preacher an Easy Time?

In the different country weeklies, as well as other newspapers, we hear a lot about the trials and tribulations of the Editor, very few if any ever thinking that any one else ever has anything but a very nice, good job. We probably have just as much as the average editor to wait about, but we have decided for this issue at least to let them rest and expose some of the things that a minister has against him and what heavy seldom killers. We may give a few of our readers in another issue.

The preacher has a hard time of it if his hair is grey. Is he old? If he is a young man he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children he has too many. If he hasn't any, he should have and is not setting a good example. If his wife sags in the chair she is presumptuous. If she doesn't she is not interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads his notes he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, reasoners he is not deep enough. If he stays at home in his study he does not mix enough with the people. If he is seen around the streets he ought to be at home getting on a good soap. If he calls on a very poor family he is playing to the gallery. If he calls at the home of the rich he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, someone could have told him better. He has a fine time of it with the donations which never come in, and promises that never arrive.

A NEUTRAL'S ANSWER

When it comes right down to a question of the English speaking vs. the Teutonic allies, all questions of neutrality are scattered to the four winds and we find the "English-speaking" back to back with the common foe. Of this there have been many evidences, but perhaps the best illustration yet was found in the recent Chicago election.

W. H. Thompson was named mayor by a majority of 130,000, the biggest majority ever given a Chicago candidate, and indications would point to the fact that this was due to the introduction of the racial cry against him. Robert M. Sweitzer was his opponent. Lined up behind him was the leading German and Austrians of the big city. Their leaders called upon all their compatriots to vote for Sweitzer. They sent out, a couple of days before the election, thousands of circulars calling for votes against Thompson. Kaiser Bill's picture and that of Emperor

Francis Joseph adorned the top of the circular. A vote for Sweitzer, said the body of the circular, meant a vote of confidence in the Teutonic allies and would save the Fatherland. It might have helped the Fatherland but poor Sweitzer met his Waterloo. The "English-speaking" arose as one man against the Teuton. The circular created an intense wave of resentment and Germany and Austria received an answer, the purpose of which there is no room for question. —Medicine Hat News.

Reception Given Miss Noble

On Friday evening of last week about twenty of the young ladies of Cressholm were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cochran in honor of Miss Noble who has recently taken up her duties as stenographer for the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The evening was spent in social chat, interspersed with musical selections, as well as several vocal solos rendered by Miss Ethel Knight and Miss Eva Moffatt. At a late hour a most dainty lunch consisting of sandwiches cake and coffee was served. The guests then journeyed home feeling that they had spent a most pleasant evening.

CLEAN UP!

Now let us give the war a rest, the song, the silly, and gaily shed our coat and vest, and go up and clean the alley! Let's gather up the dogs and cats which have lived in dirt and let the sun and birds and hats off to the dump be cried. In winter you may voice your views, which you believe important, and base long sermons on the news, but in the spring you can't. Then every alley belled man should sweep the "Clean Up" slogan, and chase the old tomato can, the cast off hat and bargain. So let us clear our bulging brows of trifling thoughts and narrow and gather up the old dross, and wash the ruck and harrow. The rubbish left by careless men and lady human chasses, will bring a host of germs upon, and they'll bring punk diseases. And forty billion flies will come, as microbes bearing, and round our weary heads they'll hum, and keep us busy cleaning. Clean up! Clean up! On every block let all the workers rally! No man should stand around and wait until he's cleaned his alley!—Walk Mason.

THE DEAR LITTLE BULLET

How dear to my heart are the scenes of the battle, As every good soldier should find them to be.

How sweet to my ears is the musical rattle Of the enemy's guns as he tries them on me!

But of all the delights that I have in full measure— Though of wounds my idea is still rather vague— I think it would be the most exquisite pleasure— To be shot by a bullet approved by the Hague.

The next little bullet, the cleanest of all bullets, Humane little bullet approved by the Hague.

How sweet in a non-violent part to strike you dead!

It seems so delightful I scarce can believe it, (Is it safer to stand on my feet or my head?) And when I'm removed from the level situation Where the enemy now I so gleefully plague, I surely will find it a full compensation.

To be killed by a bullet approved by the Hague.

The next little bullet, the cleanest of all bullets, Humane little bullet approved by the Hague.

Honors for Son of Granum Man

J. L. McFalls, B.A., of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, has been successful in winning honors at that college of an unprecedented nature, his successes including the high MacLachlan Scholarship of $80.00, the Kewland prize of $25 for election, and the Judge Hutchinson prize of ten books for ecclesiastical architecture. Mr. McFalls was also valedictorian at the annual Convocation of the College last week.

"Billy" Sunday On Newspapers

"Billy" Sunday hit the journalistic trail in New York and whittled a word that the experience had afforded him more genuine pleasure than he ever thought was contained in the city he has characterized as "America's hell hole." This was done for the benefit of about three hundred and fifty newspaper men who gathered at the New York Press Club. In his speech he gave the Newspapers a good part of the credit for every right impulse in the world in a long time.

Oddfellows Fittingly Celebrate Anniversary

Foot Hill Lodge No. 13, I. O. O. F., assisted in every material way by Venus Rebekah Lodge No. 27, celebrated the ninety-sixth anniversary of Odd-fellowship in a most fitting manner in their commodious building here on Monday night, when the secretary announced to the members that there were seventeen applications for membership to be acted upon. The members were well prepared, and having invited the subordinate lodges from High River, Coxy, Nanton, Stavely, Granum, Macleod and Carmanagay to be present. The lodges kindly consented to assist. Little Bos Lodge of Carmanagay put on the first two degrees and High River putting on the second and third degrees.

About eleven o'clock Venus Rebekah Lodge got in their part of the proceedings when they notified the subordinate lodge that they would like their presence in the lower hall where a very sumptuous repast was in waiting for the hundred and fifty who were present. You may not assure this was very much appreciated and ample justice was done to the many good things provided.

Business was then resumed and more in the lodge rooms and the ceremonies completed, after which addresses were given by Grand Master Miller of Carmanagay, and Special Deputy Bos, Tully of Calgary, both speaking in very flattering terms of the work done by the different Degree teams, and of Foot Hill Lodge. No. 13, to have been able at a season when things in general are practically at a business stand still to be able to accomplish such results and it certainly speaks well for the local reputation of Foot Hill Lodge, when such a show-off is accomplished, and they to be busy during the next year, admitting new members.

Less Grain in Farmers' Hands Than any Previous Year

A press bulletin issued recently by the Census and Statistics Office, gives the results of the usual annual inquiry as to the stocks of grain and other crops remaining in the hands of farmers at the end of March, and the proportion of the crops harvested in the previous year which turned out to be of merchantable quality. The returns received from crop-reporting correspondents show that of the total stock of wheat in 1914, 142 per cent, or 20,247,000 bushels remained in farmers' hands at the end of last month. At the rate of 14 bushels per acre, this quantity should allow for the sowing this spring about 11,570,000 acres or 1,522,000 acres more than was sown in the spring of 1914. Independently of quantities of wheat stored in elevators which may be returned to the farmers for seedling purposes. The quantity of wheat remaining this year in the hands of farmers, is however smaller than in any previous year on record, the light crop and the high price being together responsible for this result. In 1914 the quantity of wheat estimated to be in the farmers' hands at March 31, was 28,525,000 bushels, or 163 per cent of the large harvest of 1913; in 1913 at March 31 the proportion was twenty-two per cent or 50,234,000 bushels and at March 31, 1912 it was twenty-seven per cent or 65,188,000 bushels.

Of the remaining grain crops the proportions of the previous year's production estimated to be in the farmers' hands on March 31 are also smaller than in any former year on record. Oats show a balance of 85,843,000 bushels last year of 57,672,000 bushels, 74,800 bushels, or twenty and one-half per cent, type 343,700 bushels, or seventeen per cent, buckwheat 1,792,000 bushels, or twenty-one per cent, corn for feeding 2,628,000 bushels or twenty-one per cent, and flaxseed 740,700 bushels, or ten per cent. Of potatoes which gave the excellent yield last year of 57,672,000 bushels, 37.7 per cent, or 32,310,000 bushels were in farmers' hands on March 31, this proportion being larger than any other year on record, excepting 1911, when forty-three per cent, or 36,019,000 bushels remained over from the harvest of 1912. Of turnips and other roots 10,257,000 bushels or fifteen per cent remained over, and of hay and clover the quantity in farmers' hands is placed at 2,173,000 tons or twenty-one per cent of the total crop of 10,250,000 tons.

Out of the total wheat crop of 161,280,000 bushels, all but six and one-half per cent, or 150,768,000 bushels were proved to be of merchantable quality. This per centage, although below the exceptional record of 1914, when the proportion non-merchantable was less than three per cent, is about equal to the average of the last six years during which the lowest proportion of merchantable grain was in 1910-11 after the poor season of 1910 when 12.8 per cent was estimated to be of non-merchantable quality. The proportions of other crops in 1914 which proved to be of merchantable quality are as follows: oats ninety-one per cent, barley eighty-eight per cent, rye ninety per cent, buckwheat eighty-four per cent, corn for feeding eighty-eight per cent, flax seed eighty-eight per cent, and potatoes ninety-six per cent. Turnips, etc. eighty-seven per cent, and hay and clover eighty-eight per cent.

Correspondents throughout Canada report that the past winter has been exceptionally mild. In most of the provinces live stock have in consequence come well through and are in good condition. In some parts, notably in Saskatchewan, the light crops of last year resulted in feeding difficulties, and animals at the close of the winter were thin. In these cases however, matters would have been much worse had the winter been of normal severity. The farmers were preparing for a big increase in the acreage to be seeded, their efforts being facilitated by the large amount of fall plowing completed last year.

DAMON AND PYTHIAS

With the great spectacular photo-drama, "Damon and Pythias," is presented at the Rex Theatre, tomorrow, it will be with the full and hearty consent of the Supreme Lodge of the Knights. The friendship of these Grecian noblemen—two warriors that oregat and good influence thereof is founded. And to this added the enthusiastic plaudits of the theatre who have found in this classic production with its scenes of splendor and magnificence, faithful representations of the era when the world was in her glory, the accuracy the exaltation of all efforts in great undertakings in motion picture creating. It is given in six parts, and each scene is of wondrous beauty. It is at the time when life was found in the thrill of battle, the games, the chariot races, the grace of the dances, all in scenes of mediocrity, splendor, and through all, shining like a great light, the everlasting story of the friendship of "Damon and Pythias," the crucible in which it was tested, and came forth as gold, leaving the world a lesson that is imperishable as the truth it carries.

Killed By An Electric Shock

J. W. Forde, principal of our public school received the sad news of his father being killed almost instantly by an electric shock near Chatham Ontario, on Tuesday afternoon. It appears that the accident occurred when a ladder upon which Mr. Forde was standing and was working came in contact with a high voltage wire, electrifying both. The pulmotor was applied but failed to resuscitate him. Mr. J. W. Forde left the same evening for home, he will probably be gone for several weeks. Miss Atkinson is supplying for him in the school during his absence.

This year's slugging, Spanish the worm and sweat the fly, and then on to Berlin.

We don't know whether we of this little burg are ahead of our times, or whether we are falling back to the ways of the medieval in regard to our medium of exchange. We are told that among some African tribes the medium of exchange is ivory. Among others it is shells, and so on. Money has gone into disuse here altogether—at least we never see any of it. We heard of a case the other day where a head of a cow was used as a bill, then turned around and paid a bill with same. For our part we prefer the current coin of the realm. The horse shoes are too clammy and too darned heavy to pack around.

Nearly every paper you read in Canada today is shouting "graft." The Conservative papers are accusing the Liberals of reckless extravagance and the Liberal papers are accusing the Conservatives of criminal misdeeds of public monies. The political patronage system is being blown to all its unbecoming ends. The next election is being fore-shadowed with muckraking and mud-slinging that is returning us to the days of the "Gilded Age." Too often the charges being made are true. The newspapers are endeavoring to uphold the honor of the country. For any great change in conditions the public conscience must be awakened and the people stand behind the papers that are engaged in the struggle for cleaner politics. Every office holder, no matter to what political party he belongs with the taint of dishonesty in his record, must be kicked out and be replaced with honest men. True Canada will do a little much-needed house cleaning and to a large extent purify the political situation. Today an ungodly muckraking is eating out our political life and now who are in touch with the common people must be elected to offices. We must depend upon the personal character of our representatives rather than the party to which they are affiliated.

A FAREWELL PARTY

Last evening a very formal party consisting of ten gentlemen was given by Mr. Moffatt in honor of Lord Clinton who is leaving town on Monday night for Winnipeg. The formal party of the party consisted of clothes ranging anywhere from overalls to dress suits and silk hats, the guests being the one invited to the party. The evening was spent in singing, dancing and playing cards, after which supper of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served. Before departing a short address and words of remembrance was given to Lord, who replied to the best of his ability and in few words told just what he thought of the party in general.

Mail Order Houses

Receive Body Punch

While all this fighting is going on around us, both in the home and abroad, we must not overlook the fact that the mail order houses have received a body punch, with the commencement of the War tax recently. For years the country editors have been telling their readers to patronize the home merchants and to build up a town. A big percentage of the taxes have been absorbed by these houses in looking at the mail order catalogues they have found where they could save a cent or two by waiting a couple of months to receive their goods by mail. These merchants have told them they lost money by the transaction, but in their greed had overlooked the fact. Today it is different, the home merchant who sells his goods at a close margin can now afford to do so with the mail order catalogues. It is a hard battle, but the mail order houses will in the future have some consideration for the home merchant and keep what little money they spend at home where it belongs.

SOME DIFFERENCES

Here and there amongst our dairy men are such splendid results attained that one can only be astonished at the consistency with which they are enabled to produce milk of such high quality with the pitifully small average yields of milk per cow. Why do these large differences exist?

Just a few miles from here is one of these great herds, six cows with an average of only 3,200 pounds of milk, the highest yield only 1,000 pounds.

In western Ontario, indeed, the possibilities for the man whose eyes are open to what milk records have to teach. One of 12 grades received 10,657 pounds of milk and 317 pounds of fat, the second herd of 22 grades averaged 10,641 pounds of milk and 360 pounds of fat.

These marvelous differences in herd yields drive home hard facts. Also differ in their methods of feeding and handling cows, foods fed, milk cows differ considerably in their inherent capacity as milk producers, they are not all in the same mold.

In the above two great herds the constant use of milk records has provided excellent help in raising the production. Cow testing pays.

CONDUM BULLETS.

They Get Their Name From The Town Where They Originate.

Condum bullets have their name from a little town in India, near Calcutta, where the munition factory for the British government in India is situated. For the twenty or thirty years possible Indian mutinies, negroes and other barbarians the British had a sort of manufactured fire which is built over with steel, but with a soft touch and is then discharged from a modern rifle of high power. This is the case with the Condum bullets, which are made of a soft metal, and are so constructed as to flatten out, and thus cause a fatal wound. If it does not strike a vital part, the bullet will cause a fatal wound through the man without wounding him seriously. But it is not this that is the reason for the name being given to the bullet. The British military authorities in India considered that a humane bullet like that would be of little use to fight against with, and therefore, at Dumfries, they manufactured the soft Condum bullet. But the international conference at The Hague in 1864 decided against the use of this bullet in war and adopted a rule forbidding it—New York Mail.

The purpose of this bullet is to kill the man every time. The purpose of the ordinary humane bullet of modern warfare, which is wholly encased in steel or nickel, is merely to put the man out of the fight. It makes a small, clean wound. If it does not strike a vital part, the bullet will cause a fatal wound through the man without wounding him seriously. But it is not this that is the reason for the name being given to the bullet. BUTTER WRAPPERS

Must Be Printed or Branded According to New Dairy Act

AN Official of the Dominion Department of Agriculture visited Edmonton recently and stated that it was the intention of the department to enforce strictly the act regarding the branding of Dairy Butter which was passed last year. From now on anyone selling Dairy Butter in Blocks, Squares or Prints and wrapped in Parchment, must have "DAIRY BUTTER" clearly marked on the Package or be liable to a Fine.

It is better defined as Butter manufactured in a place where the Milk or Cream of less than fifty cows is manufactured into butter. The underlying principal is protection to the Consumer, the Honest Manufacturer, and the Honest Trader.

In passing we might state, to convince the Public of our facilities for printing Butter Wrappers, we

Have Just Completed one of, if not

A FOREMOST DUTY OF CITY FATHERS

Practical Suggestions For Every Municipality—Must Help to Keep Labor Busy

The Kingston "Standard" a few weeks ago advanced the suggestion that every city and town that should have a bureau to encourage "Made-in-Canada" goods. Developing this idea the editor points out that money spent by public officers for the good of the public should serve the good of the public by being invested in what makes work for Canadians. There are cases in this country of councils and boards of works turning down Canadian tenders even when they were lower than foreign tenders; or because they were a few dollars higher; or because they wanted to try experiments; or because they figured that the factories which paid taxes into their own civil treasury could afford to beat up business abroad. Happily, such cases are not now as frequent as they used to be.

The civic employers and spender of Canada as a whole, have got it wrong into their heads that it is far more important to have labor buy in factories and able to spend wages for "Made-in-Canada" goods, than to have labor tramp the streets looking for charity or work. It is better to have men busy on some thing that represents a fair return of labor than busy on work that is done by a corporation just on purpose to keep men from being idle.

A skilled workman may be able to handle a shovel on a piece of road work. But it won't do it as well as the man that breeds and feeds the shovel. His power to work depends on the thing he does. When he is at a job that does not suit him he wastes his labor. The civic government, it does not help to keep labor busy in its own factories, or factories elsewhere in Canada, is neglecting a solid opportunity to help the citizen movement that keeps civic governments from having had economic problems on their hands. Every municipal government in Canada should be a civic headquarters for the purpose of "Made-in-Canada" goods.

NICKEL AND NICKELS

New Light on a Live Question—Everybody Can Help

Thousands of tons of Canadian nickel are at the present time in the arm-pits of German warships, as well as of British and French and Austrian and Russian. From our mines near Copper Cliff, Ont., we have shipped out this nickel to the United States in a crude form to be refined and reshipped by American companies to the markets of the world. Up till the past couple of months nickel could have raised any objection to this as a matter of business. Canada had a corner on a very useful article. She sold it to the world.

But at the present time there is not a ounce of nickel-plate in any German armament on the Kiel canal or at Essen or anywhere else that Canada would not gladly take back and pay the cash price to keep it in this country, until the war is over. That's practical patriotism just as selling the nickel abroad was practical business.

If we are so sensibly concerned over the nickel sold to the enemy in time of peace, let us be as sensibly and vigorously concerned about the nickels and the dollars we have been sending out of this country to buy things made by foreign labor, paying foreign dividends for the sale of foreign homes. If we Canadians are really in earnest we can repair all damage resulting from the export of our nickel to Germany—by refusing to spend our money for foreign-made goods. We can get back this nickel. But we can stop it—nickels and the dimes and the dollars from going abroad after the nickel. If as a matter of business, we helped the enemy in a time of peace, as a bigger matter of business we can help ourselves in a time of war by keeping our own money in this country to keep Canada prosperous.

PERHAPS you do not realize how many lines of "Made-in-Canada" goods are better than the imported, or how often it is profitable as well as patriotic to buy things made by your own countrymen.

WAKE UP, CANADA!

How Toronto Board of Trade is Promoting Prosperity in Canada

The Toronto Board of Trade recently issued a most pamphlet under the title "Wake Up, Canada—A Method to Stop Imports as Usual." This booklet contains official statistics of the imports of foreign goods to Canada during the last fiscal year, apart from the statistics, however, the booklet contains some sound advice for Canadians generally, a few paragraphs of which we reproduce: Thousands of people in Canada are out of work. If the men and women of this country would buy Canadian-made goods voluntarily, Canada would be millions of dollars richer, and all workmen would be back at work. Charity begins at home, and this is not only charity but good business.

Let every citizen—man and woman—show true patriotism by promptly responding to make Canada richer and prosperous by providing work for her sons and daughters.

This can be done, in large part, by the development of every man's Canadian resource, and particularly by demanding Canadian-made products and Canadian-made goods in the course of our daily life.

Buyers all over Canada can do much to check the incoming flood of foreign goods. Not to the time when every dollar saved to Canada is a dollar earned for Canada.

Every manufacturer and merchant should lay down this policy for his purchasing department to follow. This is the first day in the matter. Architects, builders and contractors can, if they will, save thousands of Canadian workmen employed by specifying Canadian-made materials in their building specifications. Other professional men can add to their own incomes by ensuring the prosperity of their clients through purchase of some product of Canadian government and municipal authorities all over Canada have it in their hands to direct a tremendous volume of business to Canada, and surely it is wise as well as patriotic to give our own workmen the employment so that they will not come in any way a charge upon the community.

The demand tomorrow all over Canada for Canadian-made goods would change as if by magic, the present depression into immediate prosperity. It is a ready-made, practical, sensible, and profitable way for us all, of us, to make and keep Canada prosperous.

It is practical patriotism to give the preference to goods "Made-in-Canada," and it is practical self-interest as well. Your money stays in Canada—lives up Canadian trade generally—and so helps to create a prosperity in which you share.

DEAL IN STOVES

How One Factory Got an Order—Keeps the Wheels Turning

A statement issued by one of Hamilton's stove manufacturing concerns, illustrates in a striking way the effect of the "Made-in-Canada" campaign which has been running for the last few months. Some time ago the factory was closed for lack of orders. Today it is running four days per week, and there are prospects that it may run six days a week before long.

We used to find pretty strong competition from a certain Michigan stove concern," said the manager of the factory referred to, "and largely because there were so many American settlers in the West who had always known the Michigan stove on the other side, we could find very difficult to get the retailers to stock our line, although our prices were a shade lower than those of the American concern."

"One of our best travellers was on his way back from the West at the time. He ran into an informal comparison of retail hardware men in Regina, and found them discussing wars and rumors of keeping their business open. He wired us for permission to make them a proposition. We contacted and an agreement was reached whereby these men agreed to handle only 'Made-in-Canada' stoves. On the other hand certain makers in the East had to get together and agree to carry these fellows over the hard sledding. The result has been splendid. Banks, retailers and ourselves have prospered. As a result of a 'Made-in-Canada' slogan we are able to keep our men employed and our machinery from rusting."

ONE VIEW OF WAR.

And the Question of the Mother of the slain Soldier Boy.

When I first consider the word war I feel a shock, as if one spoke to me of vilest, fiercest, most cruel and desecrating thing, abominable, monstrous, unnatural.

When we hear of cannibals we smile with pride and proclaim our superiority over those savages.

What are savages, real savages—those who do not eat the victims of their wars? I think I can tell you. Those youthful soldiers of the line speeding along ponder are destined to die by a stroke of a sword or the bayonet, or a bullet. They are destined to fall on a plain, their heads left by a stroke from a sword or the bayonet, pierced by a bullet. And these are young men who could have been great. Their fathers are old and poor; their mothers, who during peace have loved and worshipped them, as mothers can worship, will learn in six months or perhaps a year that the son, the child, the big child, brought up with so much trouble, with so much money, with so much love, was thrown into a hole like a dead dog after his body, riddled by a bullet, had been trampled and crushed into pulp by the charge of cavalry. Why have they killed her boy, her noble boy, but their hope, her pride, her life? She cannot tell. Yes, why?—Glad of Missus.

Happy, indeed. Romantic Reader—Did your last novel and happy? Author—Yes; the publishers paid me five days for it. I liked it—New York Times.

Self control is a great virtue. He is most powerful who has himself in his own power.
